Prof Bhaskar Bhatt has been appointed as the new dean of the School of Design of UPES as per the announcement made by the university on Thursday. During his 22-year career experience in design education, he worked for some leading institutions like National Institute of Design Ahmedabad and IIT Gandhinagar. Senior UPES officers said that his academic experience includes his roles as a doctoral researcher at Lincoln University, New Zealand, and as director – SOD at Anant National University.

Commenting on his new appointment, Prof Bhatt said that he would explore new design horizons, drive meaningful research and prepare the students to lead and excel in the ever-evolving world of design. The vice- chancellor, UPES Ram K Sharma also expressed his happiness over Prof Bhatt’s appointment.
